Paul Buckmaster

score areas, as well as cutting-edge jazz and electro-funk departments who made his mark starting in the 1970's working with Elton John on his debut album, Elton John. Paul's innovative arrangements, combining powerful rock rhythm sections with a classically arranged full orchestra, launched Elton's stellar career, and solidified Buckmaster's reputation as a hit arranger. Well-known titles from that era include "Your Song", "Tiny Dancer", "Madman Across The Water", "Sixty Years On", "Take Me to the Pilot", "Levon", etc. Paul went on to arrange and conduct for countless iconic artists including Miles Davis, Rolling Stones, David Bowie and Harry Nilsson. In 2002, Paul won a Grammy for Best Arranger Accompanying Vocal, for his string orchestra arrangement on the band Train's hit single "Drops of Jupiter". He also arranged the strings for Grammy award winner Taylor Swift's hit single "Back to December". Most recently Paul has been working with Hunter Hayes, Brandi Carlile, Goo Goo Dolls, Chris Cornell, Idina Menzel, Heart and Ben Folds.
